Supporting Granite's attempts

This has always been my thought: Let me say I completely agree with Dan Scott (Community Voices, May 27). (Some people think) that quarries are the fault of all the dust in the atmosphere. I grew up north of Temecula. We have experienced dust for many years. In the past years, we have had what is known as the Santa Ana or N/E winds, and they generate a great amount of dust created from the ... states of Utah, California, Arizona and Colorado.

What the Liberty quarry has done is to eliminate these conditions. It has been well-defined and the facts are on record. They were approved by these agencies relating to their dust handling while operating the quarry. The amount of truck traffic also will be controlled.

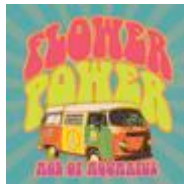

I feel that what Dan Scott has mentioned is very good, and I support also what Granite is attempting to do.

I have a agree with Rich and Dan Scott too. I have done a ton of research on this topic as I live in Temecula and my husband as well as few other family members suffer from server asthma. A trip the ER is not abnormal in our household. This quarry and others like it will not have any effect on locals with asthma. I have asked several DRs as you have suggested Mike and they have come to the same conclusion. I also asked a few of the Dr's the opposition is toting and the few I had asked had never even heard of the project. Not sure how could be opposed to something they haven't heard of. I just hope others in Temecula will do their own homework and ask questions and get answers.

Hello Rich! You are in HEMET!!! It does not impact you or your family. You kid is not the one that will be choking from the impact to their asthma. Talk to the doctors in the area. Better yet, move to Redhawk and THEN you can have a voice in the matter, until then keep your trap shut.
